Duration:	3 months
Source of idea for study:	Complaints on monopoly high pricing and refusal to deal by apatite producer received from fertilizer producers (i.e. apatite consumers)
Outcome (tick relevant columns):			<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Reason for study (what were the problems)?	Apatite Co. is a sole apatite producer in the European part of Russia selling its products in the open market. Its share in apatite production is more than 90%. Other producers supply apatite only to their subsidiaries. Apatite consumers complained about the rapid and unjustifiable price increase for apatite. FAS imposed a regulated price on it, however, Apatite Co. engaged in refusal to deal. The task was to develop rules of trade that would guarantee sustainable apatite supply at a fair price.
